

Left to 'live in tent' after refuge closes

Now there is nowhere to go for at-risk youngsters, claims councillor

A REFUGE for at-risk youngsters will shut its doors this week – leaving at least one vulnerable resident living in a tent.

Occasio House in Harlow closes tomorrow having previously housed more than 100 young people who had nowhere else to go.

And Harlow Councillor Mike Danvers said he was aware of one former tenant who had been forced to live in a tent as they had no other alternative.

Housing Association East Thames, which operates the Occasio House foyer, informed residents of the closure in March and a spokeswoman said it would work with anyone displaced. Cllr Danvers said: "It's a life-line because many of them have been referred there by social services and are vulnerable youngsters.

"I know of one resident and without going in to too much detail they are now living in a tent."

He added: "Occasio House was provided and built with public money and it is quite immoral for this important facility to be closed.

Rub salt

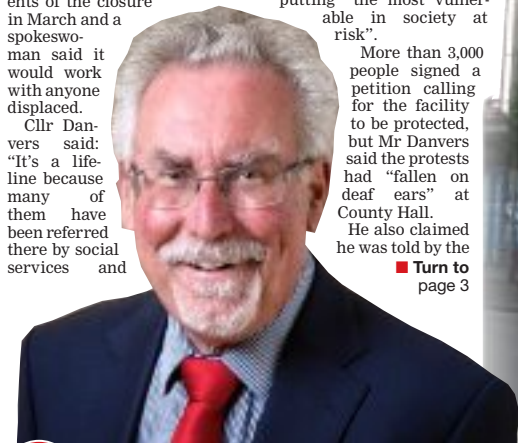

"To rub salt in the wound the way some of the evictions have been handled has been absolutely deplorable."

Earlier this year Essex County Council withdrew £180,000 in funding from Occasio House, a move which Mr Danvers said was putting "the most vulnerable in society at risk".

More than 3,000 people signed a petition calling for the facility to be protected, but Mr Danvers said the protests had "fallen on deaf ears" at County Hall.

He also claimed he was told by the Post Office is on the move to WH Smiths

Public consultation to continue into November on change

By Sam Meadows and William Mata

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

PROPOSALS to move Harlow's main post office have been unveiled.

The sites current location in Stone Cross would be vacated, with the Post Office moving into the nearby WHSmith's - around 350m away in Broad Walk.

The move would mean an extra four and a half hours of service every week and the possibility of Sunday opening.

Roger Gale, the general manager of the Post Office Crown Network, said: "We are committed to keeping our services on the high street which we know is hugely important to people. This proposal means we can continue to do that, into the future.

"Customers will be offered the same range of services, with the exception of the digital application service for the Home Office, and Sunday opening."

He added: "We have to adapt so that we can maintain our presence on high streets and in the heart of communities, which we are determined to do."

A consultation is open now and closes on Wednesday, November 2, before the proposed move in February next year.

Speaking to service users near the Post Office the Star found mixed opinions.

Massive

Lewis Bower, 33, of Saffron Walden, said: "It is the most disproportionately large Post Office I have ever seen. It's massive, so why not move?"

Paul Soady, 39, of Little Parndon, said: "It's moving with the times and I would not miss it. It's usually full of older people.

"This end of town has been forgotten, nothing has been done here for 20 years apart from the flower pots."

James Sherwin, 36, of Park Court, Harlow, said: "This is becoming a forgotten end to the town. (The move) depends on how it will impact on services. If it is just a counter with one person serving, it would be a bit rubbish."

Isabella Doig, 69, of Church Langley, Harlow, said: "There is no space in Smith's. The Post Office is so busy at the moment anyway. Last time I had to wait ten minutes to be served.

"Couldn't they move it into one of the empty shops we have, maybe Marks and Spencer?"

And Steve Goldberg, 66, of New Hall, Harlow, said: "People of my age will miss it. There will be longer queues and Smith's will not have the facilities."

Councillor Tony Durcan, Harlow Council's regeneration representative, said he would be seeking reassurances the move would not impact on services.

He said: "This could be a win-win situation for both the Post Office and WH Smith and could secure the long term viability of both which are a key part of the town centre's future and past."

He added: "We have several small retailers who sit alongside the current Post Office and we need to ensure these small local business don't suffer as a result of this proposed move."

"We know through talking to residents during the summer that a vibrant Market Square is important so we will also be looking at what we can do for this area of the town in the coming months."

Mo Farah and Olly Murs join campaign

Celebrities back fund for a girl's brain tumour operation

By Kelly Clark
star@hertsexnews.co.uk

CELEBRITIES have joined the campaign to find a cure for the brain tumour putting a Harlow girl's life at risk.

Kaleigh Lau, six, was diagnosed with diffuse intrinsic pontine glioma (DIPG) in April.

The inoperable tumour grows in the middle area of the brainstem and there is no effective treatment or known cure in the world – with 99 per cent of sufferers killed by it.

Kaleigh, who attends Harlow Chinese School, completed the recommended 30 sessions of radiotherapy in June which reduced the tumour, but the family said it's only a matter of time before it begins to grow again.

Parents Scott and Yang face a race against time as they strive to collect 100,000 signatures on a petition before December 3 calling on the Government to fund more research into DIPG.

Boost

The petition has attracted 15,000 signatures, but now needs 800 every day until the deadline if they are to be successful in bringing a debate to Parliament.

To give the campaign a boost, friends and family are pulling out the stops to get celebrities on board, with Olympic athlete Mo Farah, popstar Olly Murs and BBC News reporter Louisa Preston recording short messages urging more people to sign the petition.

Dad Mr Lau, 40, said: "This is a tall ask, but if we continue doing everything we can, at least we have tried."

A social media nomination challenge also urges supporters to film themselves completing 40 squats, nine sit-ups and one diamond press-up – representing 40 diagnoses each year, nine months between diagnosis and expected death and one per cent survival rate.

CAMPAIGN: Kaleigh Lau and her family are hoping to raise enough for a cure

And while £78,000 has been raised and donated to the family to help fund treatment and days out, the family are just as keen for research charities such as Funding Neuro and Abbie's Army to be supported to do their vital work.

Mr Lau said: "The truth of the matter is I don't know how much money we need for treatment. We are discussing treatment, but nothing is on the table at the moment.

"I am not expecting people to pay out their hard earned money, but if I could do it myself, I would."

"The main thing is to find a cure. If they do not find a cure, it's all meaningless."

"That's why I'm asking people who take part in the nomination challenge to support those charities funding research."

"We are so grateful for all the support we are getting. We would not be able to do all of this ourselves. We are just grateful people are recognising how important this is."

"We are trying to do as much as we can to help the DIPG community before we get into the reality of what's in front of us and that's my daughter's treatment. We are staying strong. We have to believe there's a miracle."

Common symptoms of DIPG are persistent headaches, blurred vision, vomiting, co-ordination problems, behaviour changes, fits or seizures and abnormal head position.

Facility for vulnerable residents no longer sustainable council's cabinet member for housing Dick Madden that the closure would not take place until the new year.

A spokeswoman for East Thames said the facility was "no longer sustainable in its current form" and a support team was meeting with residents and would help with their accommodation needs.

She added: "As part of these meetings we had informed residents that they would soon be receiving formal possession orders, however we had made clear that we did not require residents to move out on the date stated, nor do we require them to pay any court costs."

"Unfortunately the possession orders received by residents used a standard legal format which states that recipients may be responsible for costs, so our team have again been speaking with residents directly to reassure them that this is not the case, and that they do not need to move out immediately."

Essex County Council was approached for comment but was not able to respond before the Star went to press.

Crime update at police meet

Just 30 residents there to ask questions

By Kelly Clark
star@hertsexnews.co.uk

JUST 30 residents took the opportunity to question the Police and Crime Commissioner (PCC) about issues affecting their lives in Harlow.

Roger Hirst, right, visited the town last week along with District Commander Alan Ray to host a public meeting led by the county's PCC.

The meeting, at Latton Bush Centre, in Southern Way, was an opportunity for residents to ask questions directly of the PCC and have their say on crime in Harlow.

An extensive briefing document available online outlined the top three causes for concern in the town were antisocial behaviour, street drinkers and unauthorised encampments.

Jan Klimkowski, assistant director for communication and engagement for the PCC, said while the turnout was fine, he feared residents may be a little talked out about crime since the murder of Arkadiusz Jozwik in the town.

He said: "Of course, we want as many people as possible to come to these meetings, but essentially this is about giving an opportunity for people to have the conversations and raise awareness of the issues which really matter to them.

"It's about the quality of the conversations rather than the quantity.

"In fact, at this meeting it meant all 30 of those people got the chance to have their say.

"There's also a sense in Harlow, with the recent tragic events there, that some people feel a bit of fatigue about talking about these things."

The PCC regularly holds public meetings at the county's 14 districts to give residents the opportunity to report back on what they feel is going well or not so well in their communities.

One of the things discussed at the Harlow meeting was the new antisocial behaviour action plan put together by the district commander and the Safer Harlow Partnership to address some of the issues residents have reported.

Mr Klimkowski said: "These meetings are an ideal way for the police to understand what matters to local residents and for residents to find out what the police are doing to address it."

Shock at theft of pony from shelter

THE owner of an animal sanctuary has spoken of her shock after a miniature Shetland pony was stolen from its centre in Roydon.

Members of the public have helped to trace and return the pony – named Yogi – but Redwings Horse Sanctuary has appealed for anyone with any information to come forward.

The four-year-old appaloosa, who is just six hands (two foot) high, went missing from Redwings' Ada Cole Centre on Friday morning.

There was no sign of damage or tampering to the gates or fences to his field, so it is suspected the pony had been lifted over.

There was, however, evidence of damage to the site's exterior perimeter fencing, and electric tape and battery packs had been moved.

Yogi was safely located a few miles away, close to a local primary school, wearing a head collar taken from the Redwings site.

He will now undergo a period of quarantine before being reunited with his group, but seems to be ok.

Redwings' chief executive, Lynn Cutress, said staff were "devastated".

HOSPICE CARE WEEK: End-of-life care facilities grabbing chance to raise profile

Brave 'soles' are all set to brave the hot coals...

FUNDRAISERS from St Clare Hospice are planning one of the hottest events on its social calendar – walking over sizzling wood embers.

The Firewalk Challenge will take place at the charity's Hastingwood centre between 3pm and 5pm on Sunday, October 30, and will test competitors' ability to walk barefoot over 800F wood embers.

Jade Clarke, challenges fundraiser for St Clare Hospice said: "The great thing about taking part in a Firewalk is that you don't need time to train for

The week to sing hospices' praises

HOSPICES have been highlighting the extraordinary care they provide for people approaching the end of their lives.

Hospice Care Week is an annual event, and aims to raise awareness of the valuable work charities do in providing care for people across the country.

The sixth annual Hospice Care Week begins on Monday, with a number of the hospices across the region rallying to show their support.

St Clare Hospice of Harlow has plans to mark the week-long event.

The chief executive at St Clare, Tanya Curry, said: "We have been providing high-quality, person-centred and compassionate care, free of charge, to the community of West Essex and the borders of East Herts across three decades.

"Last year, we cared for more than 1,720 patients, as well as their families and loved ones, both at our centre in Hastingwood and in patients' own homes.

"It costs over £4million to run our services each year, and with limited NHS funding, we need to fund-raise the majority of this."

Ms Curry also highlighted the hospice's plans to address the growing demand for hospice care as the average life expectancy increases.

She said "We are preparing for a sharp increase in people needing our care over the next decade, and with evidence of a growing number of young people living with life-limiting conditions, as well as an ageing population, we will be needed more than ever."

"The St Clare team is ready to respond to this need, but we also require the ongoing and dedicated support of our local businesses and communities to ensure we can be there for every HOSPICE Care Week gets under way on Monday, and hospices across the area are rallying to raise awareness of the importance of the work they do. The event, which runs until next Friday, October 7, has been held for the last five years, and aims to change perceptions of hospice care. Sam Payne reports...

person who needs us, at one of life's hardest moments.

"Please support your local hospice – by donating, fundraising or volunteering – so that we can be there for you, and your family, if you ever need us."

Isabel Hospice, which serves East Herts, is also getting involved.

Support

Gill Macdonald, from the charity, said: "A lot of people are frightened of the word 'hospice', so we are keen to dispel the myths surrounding them."

Although the hospice provides care for more than 260 inpatients per year, the majority of its work is concerned with helping people in the community.

"As well as the work we do at the hospice itself, we want to raise awareness of the support we provide in both people's homes and the community, and to help people to live better with their conditions," Ms Macdonald added.

"Working at the hospice is not so much challenging as it is fulfilling, and it is a real privilege to be able to provide help for those who need it most."

Isabel Hospice will be holding a Theme It Green day on Friday, October 7, which encourages people to go green for the hospice, whether it be by baking a green cake, wearing a green wig or taking a green selfie. Anyone is free to take part, and proceeds will go to Isabel Hospice.

Golfers swing into action and raise £90k

A HOUSEBUILDER and long-standing partner of St Clare Hospice raised a record-breaking sum at a golf event.

Takeley firm Weston Homes aced it by raising £90,000 at their 22nd annual golf day at Stoke by Nayland Golf and Spa Hotel on September 9.

For over two decades, the Uttlesford-based developer has held the fundraiser, during which time it has in excess of £1m pounds for the charity.

Chairman of Weston Homes Bob Weston said: "Both myself and the whole team at Weston Homes are proud to host this fun annual event for an exceptional cause."

Tanya Curry, chief executive of St Clare, said: "Words cannot express the thanks St Clare owes to Weston Homes."

Colourful pair raise hundreds

A PAIR of Harlow fundraisers made some cash for a children's charity in glorious technicolour by taking part in the Brighton Colour Run.

Whizz-Kidz charity champion Karis Long and running partner Nicole Copping work together at Lancaster Volkswagen Harlow – part of the Jardine Motors Group.

They signed up for the colour run to engage customers in the dealership with their fundraising efforts.

They have raised more than £350 to support Whizz-Kidz's work providing disabled children with vital mobility equipment, training and opportunities.

Karis said: "We're really proud to have raised so much money for Whizz-Kidz."

"We initially signed up to do the colour run because we thought it would be a bit of fun – but raising this money has made it even more special."

"We've put photographs up in the dealership which customers have seen, leading to even more donations."

Cancelled operations blamed on lack of cash

Hospital cancelled 1,198 procedures with fewer than three days' notice

By Sam Meadows

sam.meadows@hertsessexnews.co.uk

UNDER-FUNDING of the NHS has been blamed for hundreds of cancelled operations at hospitals in Hertfordshire and Essex.

Last year, the Princess Alexandra Hospital in Harlow cancelled 1,198 operations with three days notice or less – and 259 on the day.

Of these cancellations, 468 were rescheduled for reasons including administrative errors, bed and staff shortages and equipment failures.

Margaret Fisher, health spokeswoman for the Liberal Democrats on Essex County Council, blamed successive governments for not providing enough money for health.

"The NHS is terribly underfunded," she said.

Training

"Successive governments have not put enough money into creating training places for nurses and that leads to staff shortages."

"I believe I'm right in saying agency nurses cost an awful lot more."

She added: "Successive governments over the years, it's not just the Conservatives, have not provided enough money for healthcare."

"If you compare the investment in health across Europe, we are bottom."

Of the cancelled operations at Princess Alexandra, the vast majority were rescheduled within 28 days.

The operating trust did not comment on the figures.

The North and East Hertfordshire NHS Trust, which runs Lister Hospital in Stevenage, did not provide figures on cancellations that did not take place on the day of admission.

But a spokesman said: "Operations get cancelled at short notice for many reasons, from the patient changing their mind about having the procedure or becoming unwell and not being fit clinically to undergo surgery, through to beds not being available or the surgeon having to cancel due to illness."

"Whatever the cause, our staff track every single patient affected in this way and work to get their operation rebooked as quickly as possible – they never simply return to the back of the queue."

Hertfordshire County Council's Cabinet member for health, Collette Wyatt-Lowe, said: "If hospital operations are being cancelled, then that would be a real concern to the health community and particularly to the residents themselves."

"When operations are cancelled, it might mean there are other costs for supporting patients are being incurred elsewhere."

"Clearly we need to work out why that is and do everything we can to support the acute trusts."

Tree mysteriously taken from my brother's grave

Former teacher shocked when he visited cemetery

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A MAN'S picturesque memorial to a brother he never knew has been tarnished in mysterious circumstances.

John Connolly, 51, of Home Close, Harlow, battled to find the resting place of his unnamed sibling, who was born asleep in 1963 and buried at Parndon Wood Crematorium after being taken by a priest, as is Catholic tradition.

After Mr Connolly's family found the burial spot in 2001 at the cemetery in Parndon Wood Road, Harlow, they installed a stone which was sheltered by a small tree, creating a pleasant atmosphere.

However, the former English teacher was in for a shock when he visited to pay his respects earlier this month and found the tree had gone, without any explanation.

Mr Connolly, whose two sisters also visit the site regularly, said: "It was awful, it is now completely barren and there were flowers strewn all over the ground."

"There was no consultation. It looks like a professional job as it would be a very neat act of vandalism. The tree had been there for years."

Mr Connolly, a father of seven, approached Parndon Wood management, but strangely there was no explanation to be had.

"They were apologetic and they said it makes no sense," he continued. "They really did not know it had happened."

"It's sad that people do not show respect. Somebody has made the decision to remove the tree and I cannot see why."

"They have not respected the feelings of people who have an emotional attachment to the area."

"Whatever next?"

Welcome

A spokesman from Parndon Wood said management would not have removed trees unless branches were encroaching on grave stones.

If this was the case he said effort would have been made to inform residents about the change, and that Mr Connolly would be welcome to discuss the issue with them.

The spokesman said: "We

'TAINTED': John Connolly at the spot of the memorial where the tree used to be always try our best to help people. We have had nothing but positive feedback since we took over the site from the council."

Mr Connolly's said his family often enjoy regularly enjoy a picnic in the crematorium.

He will continue to visit but admits things may not be the same again.

"There is not a lot we can do now," he added.

"I wanted them to explain why but they cannot. We will see what we can do to brighten it up. We have had picnics here before and we will continue to do so, it's just tainted now."

■ POLICING

They've lost us

I ATTENDED the police and crime commissioner's meeting on Wednesday, September 21, it would seem that this was the chance for the Harlow community to speak to our commissioner, Roger Hirst, to let him know how we would like our police service to operate and have an input to his Police and Crime Plan 2016-2020.

I only found out about the meeting that afternoon from the TV news and had to chase around to find out where and when it was to take place.

While the meeting was 'non-political' a small number (not all) the politicians that attended had a lot to say about how and what Roger Hirst was doing, but, what they said had little to do with the type of policing the community of Harlow want and need.

The Police & Crime Plan is typical of the plans that are rife in the public sector: lots of hard headlines that can be interpreted and reinterpreted to mean whatever suits them at the time.

The plan wants to build partnerships with the fire service, local councils, and community safety groups, voluntary, community and health sector, all very cosy but the local people are expected to become active citizens? I wonder if this is anything like belonging to the NAPs that the police took out of the local community's control, converted it into a mega NAP, and then closed it down, or the community mapping carried out by volunteer residents from our local community group that both the council and police stopped supporting because it was showing up too many problems that they would have to deal with, or, the police office volunteers set up for them that was misused and then abandoned, or, is it like the quarterly police forums the community group ran that the police just stopped coming to, or, could it be like the two police surgeries that we set up for them, that were so successful that we had people trying to make appointments so they could discuss local issues?

One thing that did come across at the meeting was they are

THIS week's picture was submitted by David Higgins from Harlow.

David has taken this delightful picture of a robin resting on an ornamental garden pig.

If you have a photograph you have taken in or around Harlow that you would like to be featured in the Star, email a high-resolution, landscape copy in JPEG format, along with a brief description of where and canvassing opinion to raise the council tax to give (and I quote) "the community policing" we want. It is my opinion that the present police senior management team have no commitment to our communities and would suggest that we should only pay for what we get, and that is non-existent community policing.

The police have lost so many committed volunteers, even worse, I believe that they have lost the community and will have to work a lot harder than this to get us back.

■ TRAINS

Very friendly

WHILE I agree the fares we commuters pay from Harlow to London are extremely high, the service is not great and delays, cancellations and overcrowding are the norm; I do want to say we have something going for us. The station staff at Harlow town are fantastic. I have been commuting for several years daily into Liverpool Street, and often travel back and forwards at the weekend with my granddaughter Kara. We have always been greeted with a friendly smile, courtesy and brilliant customer service. So on behalf of us usually disgruntled commuters, a big thank you to all staff at Harlow town station.

■ NHS

Of course not

RON Bill highlights the local NHS deficit of £441million (Star newspaper letters, September 22) and asks if the armed services and the House of Lords are now paying for themselves.

The answer is "of course not", but getting true figures from the government about their favoured organisations is a classic exercise in evasion and confusion.

The health service is being run into the ground because of right-wing dogma that has its basis in private is best.

The defence establishment has a £35billion black hole in its hard-to-determine budget and 16 of its projects are on average 39 years behind schedule.

If a defence project is cancelled the government is legally obliged to award the contractor with a cost-equivalent fresh contract.

Now, that really is jobs for the boys.

The House of Lords has over 800 non-elected members, second in size only to the People's Democratic Republic of China.

This group of retired and failed political yes-men, bag carriers and political party donors sit for only 130 days each year, and are not required to actually live in the UK but can and do fly in to vote.

Members are allowed to claim a daily fee of £300, even if they just stay for a couple of minutes on route to their second job.

Their subsidised food and drinks bill is £60,000 each week and on average each member claims £35,000 in tax-free expenses.

The will to abolish this gravy train is non-existent, because members of the Commons, who could decide the issue, see it as their next stop up the greasy pole, if such a thing is possible.

■ HEALTH

Improvements

I READ with interest that Lister ward at the Princess Alexandra Hospital has won an award for excellence.

It must have made great strides to get this award, as I remember just over a year ago my father was in that ward and although the staff you couldn't fault for the work they did looking after their patients, there just wasn't enough nurses to look after these old and confused patients.

I spent many a night trying to feed my confused father as the nurses had given up when his food was ready at teatime, my sister travelled from Colchester also to make sure he received his food and meds.

I found it amazing that the time the patients were given their medication was not listed down, so the next medication was given at an approximate time, sometimes hours after it should have been given.

I hope that this ward now looks after its patients better than what I saw last year.

PAYING RESPECTS: People gather at Parndon Wood Crematorium, Harlow. Inset, Arkadiusz Jozwik

Mourners gathered to pay their respects to Polish national Goodbye to Arek

By William Mata
william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A FAMILY unwillingly caught in the middle of a media storm marked the death of a kind and caring man.

Polish national Arkadiusz Jozwik was buried at Parndon Wood Crematorium, Harlow, on Friday after he died on August 29, two days after he was attacked alongside two friends.

His death sparked an international discussion about post-Brexit Britain after Essex Police announced one line of murder investigation is that the attack at The Stow, Harlow, was a hate crime.

But the funeral set aside any wider context and celebrated the life of Mr Jozwik, a family man and proud Pole who died at the age of 40.

Father Bogdan Kot, a town Christian leader, addressed mourners in English and his native Polish with a message that faith and love overcome grief and hatred.

He said: "We are here because we want to show our respects and share our Christian faith."

Pathetic

"When death has taken someone close to you, you pray. It is pathetic to go to a funeral and not see anybody pray."

"We ask why this man had to die," he added. "Evil things occur because of bad will, or stupidity or because of fatigue. God will bring good from everything if we let him.

"I want him to bring good from this senseless attack."

Town chaplain Robert Findlay attended the ceremony after leading a silent march this month, but friends and family members were keen for the funeral not to become a political event.

Mr Jozwik's friend Eric Hind took the microphone and said Arek, as he was known, was born on January 10, 1976 and was brought up in small town Tomaszow Mazowiecki.

Following encouragement from his brother Radek, Mr Jozwik moved to the town in 2012 and worked at Riverway Foods, River Way, Harlow.

Mr Hind, 33, of Harlow, who was chosen to speak on behalf of the family, said in Polish before translating: "Thank you for joining us here today."

"Arek was a wonderful man and an even better friend. We both loved the same video games, were addicted to the same television shows and football."

"He is one of the few people I have known who really actually cared. He was a true friend and he was the man who would always be there."

"I could not believe he had died."

He continued: "This is not the time to grieve his death but celebrate his life."

"Don't forget Arek. He never wanted to make anyone cry, he wanted to make everyone happy."

The service concluded with a worship song in Polish and the reading of the Lord's Prayer.

Six teenagers were arrested by Essex Police as part of a murder investigation, but all were released on bail.

Anyone with information should call 101.

BALL BOYS: The lucky six from Saint Nicholas School in Harlow Hard workers earn ball boy roles at Spurs game

PREMIER League teams famously need to finish in the top four to feature in the UEFA Champions League, but Harlow pupils took a different route.

Six Year 11 students from Saint Nicholas School, in Hobbs Cross Road, were rewarded for their hard work and sporting achievements with the opportunity to act as ball boys when Tottenham Hotspur under-19s played AS Monaco in the European competition.

Invited

After assisting in the youth game at Tottenham's North London training ground, the boys were then invited to watch the senior teams play at Wembley Stadium the same evening.

James Fox, a Year 11 student who took part, said: "I felt privileged to be a ball boy at Tottenham and see their amazing facilities."

Trevor Webb, head of education at Tottenham Hotspur Academy, added: "The boys were a credit to their school and provided fantastic support for this fixture."

"We would look forward to having them again."

Students were given a pre-match briefing and learned what it is like to work under officials from European football governing body UEFA.

AS Monaco handed Spurs a pair of defeats, with the French league side winning the under-19s game 3-2 and the senior game 2-1.

Louise is the number one choice for nursery

CHILDCARE expert Louise Farrow has become the new manager of Kiddi Caru Day Nursery in Harlow.

With 22 years of experience, bosses from the pre-school chain considered her a safe pair of hands to take over the centre in Kiln Lane.

She said: "It's already very clear to me that I am going to love working at Kiddi Caru."

"The team at the Harlow nursery is amazing and the facilities we have here are out of this world."

"As a company, Kiddi Caru is extremely supportive of its staff and also highly respectful of their experience."

"It has strong values and procedures to ensure that all the children who attend its day nurseries get the very best start in terms of their education and development," she added.

"I am very excited to be taking on the manager role at Kiddi Caru Harlow and am looking forward to using my experience to further enhance this Ofsted 'outstanding'-rated day nursery."

Town violence concern tops agenda as students quiz MP

Year 9 and Year 11 pupils also discuss gangs and youth organisations

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ROBERT Halfon swapped his Parliamentary duties to visit a class of Year 9 students at a Harlow secondary school.

The MP talked to 13- and 14-year-olds studying citizenship at Burnt Mill Academy, in First Avenue, and also held discussions with Year 11 members of the Student Senior Leadership Team.

As part of their course, the Year 9 students are looking to fundraise for awareness charity Stand Against Violence after recent tragic events in the town.

Negative

The students raised concerns about high levels of violence in Harlow which has left it open to negative coverage in the national press.

Mr Halfon was also asked about gangs, the media portrayal of young people and the lack of awareness of the youth organisations in the town.

IN TALKS: Robert Halfon chats to Year 9 pupils at Burnt Mill Academy in Harlow

The Conservative politician welcomed ideas from students and has suggested the group and their teacher Rachel Fletcher share ideas with other schools in the town.

He said that by gaining feedback from other young people about what is currently on offer the group would be in a better place to put forward ideas.

Burnt Mill Academy Trust, the group which runs several schools in the town, has recently had proposals passed to open a new school at the former Passmores Academy site on Tendring Road.

Named Sir Frederick Gibberd College, the new secondary school will welcome an eight-form entry of Year 7 pupils in 2018 and 250 sixth-form students from 2020.

Mr Halfon said: "I welcome the news of the Sir Frederick Gibberd College opening in Harlow.

"I'm sure the new school will become an important part of the Harlow community."

CRAZE CRAZINESS: Road accidents have been caused by motorists playing while driving

Pokémon stop! Drivers told don't play at wheel

POKEMON Go has been entertaining thousands of people since launching this summer – and has provided children with health and social benefits, too.

However, American researchers have warned gamers to not use the app while driving. It sounds obvious, but findings suggested a surprising number of people are doing just that. Jama Internal Medicine, a US medical journal, has monitored tweets people have posted about Pokémon Go. Researchers counted the number of posts that suggested an incident where the game had influenced driving.

In some cases, people would openly admit to playing the game on the road while others wrote about close calls or even crashes they had witnessed. In just ten days of searching, Jama recorded 110,000 cases. In Tokushima, Japan, a woman was killed after crashing her car due to playing Pokémon, while another 14 drivers crashed because of the game in July.

An author of the report wrote: "Pokémon Go is a new distraction for drivers and pedestrians, and safety messages are scarce."

Niantic, the makers of Pokémon Go, has stressed the game should not be played whilst driving. When phones detect the game is being played at speed the player is asked to confirm they are a passenger.

NHS patients rate their services on new system

People give positive and negative feedback on site

By Kelly Clark

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

NHS patients in Harlow are turning to a new TripAdvisor-type system to review services.

The modern way of leaving feedback has been adopted by the NHS in Essex, enabling residents to review health and care services.

Healthwatch Essex has launched the Feedback Centre, which gives residents the opportunity to leave reviews for hospitals, hospices, emergency care services, pharmacies, opticians, dentists, care homes, home care services, GPs, mental health services and community and voluntary services.

Residents in Harlow have already taken the opportunity to leave their thoughts.

One anonymous visitor gave the Derwent Centre at Princess Alexandra Hospital one out of five stars, concluding: "Terrible - I was treated like a criminal", while the hospital also gained a three-star and five-star reviews with comments including "generally good, a few problems" and "staff were excellent".

The Hamilton Practice, in Bush Fair, has also attracted a review, with four stars and comments praising the "lovely, helpful reception staff", but criticising the "inflexible appointments system".

The Feedback Centre not only gives a voice to service users, but it enables those services to have a right to reply.

While there was a concern the service may be used to batter services, the average star rating is 3.9 out of five and the site is being used to give praise, too.

Capture

Tom Nutt, Healthwatch Essex chief executive, said: "We capture a lot of lived experience through our engagement and research activities and this is the latest way in which we give people a voice."

"We recognised that websites like TripAdvisor are incredibly popular and represent a much more modern way of allowing people to share their experiences, exercise choice and provide feedback. We wanted to take advantage of that in the world of health and care."

Steven Clark, James Clark and Alf Mitchell broke into a property in Rivermill in February after forcing open a front door.

They made off with the cash, a handbag and some earrings, and were arrested in the fortnight after the crime following CCTV investigations.

Steven Clark, 19, of no fixed address, Chelmsford, was charged with possession of Class B or C drugs, impersonating a police officer and burglary.

James Clark, 19, of Brookes Place, Barnett Road in Potters Bar, Hertfordshire, was charged with impersonating a police officer and two counts of burglary and theft.

Alf Mitchell, 31, of Gibb Croft in Fern Hill Lane, Harlow, was charged with burglary and affray.

All three pleaded guilty and were sentenced at Chelmsford Crown Court on Thursday, September 15.

Steven Clark was jailed for 31 months, Alf Mitchell was jailed for 18 months, and James Clark was given a nine-month sentence, suspended for two years, and 150 hours of unpaid work.

Reforms could change our political landscape

The Conservative Government is looking to shed 50 constituencies

By William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

AN ELECTORAL boundary reform has the potential to change the political landscape in Harlow by widening the constituency.

The Conservative Government is in favour of shedding 50 seats nationally, which would mean constituencies would grow and the number of voters in each region brought in line.

Top Tories claim the move, which is now under public consultation, will save money and be fairer, but critics argue it will effectively ruin Labour's chances of victory by taking away their safe seats.

Robert Halfon's region would grow to include Moreton, North Weald Bassett, Chipping Ongar and Fyfield, traditionally areas in the Epping Forest or Brentwood and Ongar patch.

Safe

These constituencies are Tory safe seats, and with Harlow often a knife-edge count, the boundary change has the potential to significantly impact the election.

The Conservative MP for Harlow said: "The purpose of the boundary review is to cut the cost of politics for Harlow taxpayers by reducing the number of MPs from 650 to 600.

"It will ensure fairer voting with every constituency having roughly the same amount of voters.

"The new proposals are important but what really matters is, not so much the boundaries, but that I am able to work hard for my constituents.

"There may be further changes when the final proposals are confirmed and I welcome the views of local residents on this."

But Labour councillor Lanie Shears said: "I do not believe they have been done to save money. I believe it is to ensure we have a Tory Government forever.

"I believe we should keep them or look at them again to make sure they are fair."

Final proposals will not be made and agreed until 2018, and only then will they need to be passed through Parliament.

The policy was drawn up using numbers based on the electoral register as it stood on December 1, 2015.

Mr Shears criticised this decision as she feels the decision of where to draw the constituency boundaries should be based on population, rather than the electoral roll, to account for voters who are yet to sign up.

She added: "It's not as democratic as it should be as people have slipped off the register. It has given us a false number and it should be based on population."

Polish visit end

A VISIT from the Polish police force has come to an end.

The officers were stationed in Harlow working alongside Essex Police for a week following the suspected murder of a Polish man in the town.

Col Rafal Batkowski said: "We discussed the progress in the investigations regarding the killing and assault on Polish citizens in Harlow and the development of special programs aimed at Poles living there.

"The two Polish officers met with a very warm welcome from both British citizens and the Polish community."

Funding bid

A WILDLIFE project in Harlow is bidding for funding under Tesco's Bags for Help scheme.

The Harlow Wildlife Project is aiming to restore the old riverside in the Stort valley near Harlow.

Voting takes place in Tesco stores around the area on between October 31 and November 13.

Business rates on the table at an industry meeting with the council

BUSINESS leaders met with Essex County Council to discuss plans to devolve business rates to local authorities.

The breakfast event was jointly organised by the Essex Chamber of Commerce and County Hall, and included around 30 of the area's top businesses and a representative from the Department for Communities and Local Government.

Councillor Kevin Bentley, the Cabinet member for economic growth and partnerships, said: "In Essex we know how important local businesses are to driving growth and boosting the local economy. That is why we regularly hold events like this as part of our Essex Means Business campaign.

"Our role as a council is to help businesses grow and prosper, and that is why we will be there to listen to the views of local business leaders and make sure that their voices are heard as Government constructs its plans for business rates.

"Essex is truly a national economic powerhouse boasting businesses as diverse as finance, advanced manufacturing, bio-tech firms, creative companies and a thriving retail sector.

"We see ourselves as a partner to business in the economic growth of the county, and look forward to a prosperous future, engaging and working with Essex businesses."

Denise Rossiter, chief executive of Essex Chamber of Commerce, added: "We are pleased to be working with the county council to bring this important issue to the notice of businesses in the county and to encourage them to give their thoughts about not just the proposed changes in business rates but also the future of Essex's economy."

The meeting took place yesterday morning at Essex County Cricket Club.

DVD OF THE WEEK

COUP: Jack O'Connell as Kyle Budwell in Money Monster

MONEY MONSTER (15, 99 MINS)

Lee Gates (George Clooney), gregarious host of a network television show that surveys the movers and shakers in the financial market, prepares to interview Diane Lester (Caitriona Balfe), chief communications officer of IBIS Global Capital, whose complex trading algorithm glitched overnight and lost investors 800 million dollars.

No sooner has Lee delivered his opening monologue than a labourer, Kyle Budwell (Jack O'Connell), who has just lost his entire life savings in the IBIS crash, storms the set brandishing a gun. Cameras continue to roll as Lee dons an explosives vest and Kyle threatens to detonate unless IBIS CEO Walt Camby (Dominic West) can explain how their system was compromised.

As viewing figures soar, programme producer Patty Fenn (Julia Roberts) tries to defuse the stand-off, aided by her producer-at-large, Ron Sprecher (Christopher Denham), and cameraman Lenny (Lenny Venito). Money Monster is a tense hostage thriller, which unfolds largely in real time.

Clooney and Roberts generate molten screen chemistry, even though she is just a voice in his ear for the majority of the film. Derbyshire-born rising star O'Connell maintains his American accent as events escalate out of his nervous captor's control.

The scriptwriters pull off a jaw-dropping coup with the introduction of Kyle's pregnant girlfriend (Emily Meade), who we expect to tearfully plead for him to down his weapon. In these moments, Money Monster knocks the stuffing out of us.

However, once the central plot of skullduggery reveals its intentions, director Jodie Foster's iron-tight grasp on realism slackens and she is compelled to take big gambles to engineer a slam-bang finale. Some of them don't pay off.

Gripping account of disaster on the 'well from hell'

FILM OF THE WEEK

Deepwater Horizon

ACTION: (12A) 108 minutes

Director: Peter Berg

Starring: Mark Wahlberg, Kurt Russell, John Malkovich, Gina Rodriguez, Kate Hudson, Ethan Suplee

On April 20, 2010, an explosion on the oil drilling rig Deepwater Horizon, located in the Gulf of Mexico, resulted in the deaths of 11 platform workers.

When the structure eventually sank, oil continued to gush from the sea floor for almost three months.

Pivotal moments from this harrowing real-life disaster are recreated with testosterone-fuelled swagger by director Peter Berg in the action-packed thriller Deepwater Horizon.

Based on a newspaper article about the platform's final heart-stopping hours, the film reunites Berg with leading man Mark Wahlberg after their successful collaboration on wartime drama Lone Survivor.

The sense of dread that pervades early scenes – the calm before the digitally enhanced storm – is palpable.

Scriptwriters Matthew Michael Carnahan and Matthew Sand hastily sketch characters so we have emotional ties to several rig workers before the initial devastating blast.

Wahlberg looks stoic in the face of certain death, flexing his muscles as an action-packed second half demonstrates Berg's brio behind the camera.

Co-star Kurt Russell has excellent form with on-screen pyrotechnics – he valiantly battled the raging inferno of Backdraft back in 1991 – and forges a pleasing onscreen partnership here.

Engineer Mike Williams (Wahlberg) kisses his beautiful wife Felicia (Kate Hudson) goodbye before he boards a helicopter to the BP-owned and operated drilling platform Deepwater Horizon located approximately 40 miles off the coast of Louisiana.

Other passengers include installation manager Jimmy Harrell (Kurt Russell) and third mate Andrea Fleytas (Gina Rodriguez).

"This is the well from hell, girl," a co-worker tells Andrea, half joking.

Once they land, Jimmy becomes concerned that BP officials, including well site leader Donald Vidrine (John Malkovich), have not carried out sufficient checks to ensure the drill is operating safely.

Jimmy orders a test, which brings back concerning yet inconclusive results and reluctantly he gives the go ahead to continue drilling.

Crew members including Jason Anderson (Ethan Suplee) and Caleb Holloway (Dylan O'Brien) attempt to make up for lost time, but a massive blowout tears through the 121-metre long rig.

TRUE STORY: Mark Wahlberg plays an oil rig worker in Deepwater Horizon

Survivors of the initial blast race against time to lower lifeboats into the water before flames engulf the entire structure.

Deepwater Horizon captures the chaos of that fateful day, and the courage of men and women who risked their lives to save friends and coworkers from the rig's twisted metal.

During some of the big set pieces, it's hard to discern one figure from another in the smoke and flames, and frenetic camerawork could induce motion sickness especially in the IMAX format.

The surprisingly brisk running time doesn't allow for huge amounts of character development before the special effects department takes over, but our heartstrings are certainly plucked when key characters die in the inferno.

A heartfelt tribute to the lost crew over the end credits brings the film to a sombre close.

Delicious food for every day

Food may be trendy, but Diana Henry believes we'd all be happier in the kitchen if we remembered cooking is a life skill, not a hobby. She tells Ella Walker about the inspiration behind her 10th cookbook...

WE TUCK ourselves into a nook in an overcrowded cafe, the coffee machine belching wildly, and compare states of bedraggledness – Diana Henry's had a late night; my hair has frizzed in the rain.

But despite this – and the fact we're wedged in this fogged up cafe because the original venue, Henry's Kitchen, is being hurriedly redecorated thanks to a leak just days before the launch party of her new book, Simple – she's on great form.

"It's nonsense that people can't cook, complete nonsense," the award-winning food writer practically shouts. "If you like eating stuff and you know a few things, like how long it takes to roast a chicken, or how to put a tray of red peppers in the oven, you could make really good stuff."

Her tenth recipe collection, Simple, makes that process even easier.

Building on her fourth book, Cook Simple (which was "never as big as I wanted it to be"), it's divided into clear sections, including chicken, fish and eggs (the building blocks of mealtimes, as Henry sees them), and provides a slew of straightforward ways to cook and eat them.

"I'm a food writer and I still think, 'What can I do with chops? What can I do with that salmon fillet? What can I do with pasta?' And I think most people think about their weekday meals like that," says Henry, explaining her approach. "When I worked in telly, I used to come home on the Tube and keep a notebook which had lists in it: 'Chicken thighs – what you can do with them; salmon fillets – what you can do with them', and I just kept adding to that."

While the Northern Ireland-born journalist started out in TV, making music and arts programmes and human-interest documentaries, as well as TV Dinners with Hugh Fearnley-Whittingstall, Henry, 52, switched to food writing when she had her first child.

"I was a massively keen cook, had him, and I was just knackered! He cried all the time so I always had to carry him around," she remembers.

For some time, her first book was even going to be called Cooking From The Hip, as it was about cooking with one hand "because you had a baby in the other".

That baby just turned 18, but Henry still has "as much trouble as anyone else getting a meal on the table on a Wednesday night", so Simple is a way of solving that problem.

WORKAHOLIC: Food writer Diana Henry

In all her writing, she recognises that many find food – and wrangling it into an edible state – a chore, often stressful, or see cooking as a realm reserved purely for obsessed foodies.

"People see cooking as a hobby. It's not a hobby – it's a non-negotiable life skill," she says matter-of-factly, noting that between poor cookery classes at school and an ongoing national obesity crisis, we're struggling with a mindset that needs rattling.

"I want people to love food and care about it, but at the same time, I want them to not think about it at all – just let it go. We've become really over-anxious about it," she muses. "Food's about wonderfulness and poetry and memory and joyfulness – but it's very easy to lose that."

She's much more interested in what home cooks do than what chefs are doing, and you can find lots of recipes she's borrowed from friends in Simple.

"When you swap recipes, you have a connection. Food is about connecting, and I do like the process of cooking: I like dealing with olive oil and fish and cutting lemons," Henry explains. "That's another reason why I think we should cook every day, there's a real, small, sensual pleasure in it – it's those small things that make a better life."

Ten books in, Henry is still planning another four ahead in her mind ("I'm a workaholic"), with no sign of slowing.

"I'm 52 now – someone suggested that it was about time I hung up my spurs. I thought, 'You've got to be kidding!'"

"I started doing this at 35, it was my second career, and I've hardly begun!" she says with a grin. "I'm not nearly finished."

Pork Loin With Pumpkin Puree and Pecorino

SERVES 8

Ingredients

For the pork:

2kg boneless pork loin, skin off
6 garlic cloves, sliced
3tsp fennel seeds
1tsp chilli flakes
4tbsp olive oil
Salt and pepper

For the puree:

1.2kg butternut squash or well-flavoured pumpkin
Olive oil
Freshly grated nutmeg
100g mascarpone
Pecorino cheese, shaved
Salt and pepper
Squeeze of lemon juice

Method

Lay the pork on a board, flesh side up, and make incisions all over it with a sharp knife. Push slivers of garlic into the incisions. Crush the fennel and chilli in a mortar and pestle, add the olive oil, season and rub this all over the flesh, pushing bits down inside the slits. Put in a dish, cover and put in the fridge overnight, then return it to room temperature before cooking.

Preheat the oven to 220C/425F/gas mark 7. Roll the loin and tie at intervals with kitchen string (not too tight; it should hold its shape, not look like a sausage). Cook for 25 minutes. Reduce the oven temperature to 180C/350F/gas mark 4 and cook for one hour, basting now and then.

Cut the squash into wedges and remove the seeds. Put the wedges into a roasting tin, drizzle with olive oil, season and bake alongside the pork until completely tender, about 40 minutes.

Check the pork for doneness; the juices should run clear with no trace of pink when pierced.

Cover with foil, insulate (I use tea towels) and allow to rest for 15 minutes.

Discard the skin from the squash. Puree with plenty of seasoning, nutmeg and the mascarpone. Gently heat, then scrape into a warm dish and top with pecorino shavings. Serve with the pork.

Panto launch a howling success

IF YOU go down to Hertford this December, you'll be in for a big surprise as the theatre prepares for its production of a pantomime favourite.

From Saturday, December 3 to Sunday, January 1, Hertford Theatre Productions will stage its new performance of Little Red Riding Hood.

The performance of the traditional panto adventure will feature a variety of fantastic songs directed by Nicholas Chave and captivating dance routines choreographed by Cat Chapman, rib-tickling jokes and a timeless fairytale story for all the family to enjoy.

The production was launched at an event held at the award-winning Pretty Gorgeous Cakes shop, owned by Cynthia Stroud, on Friday.

Staff at the shop created a huge cake depicting Red sat astride the iconic Big Bad Wolf to mark the launch.

Present at the launch was Philippa Rose, 22, who was trained at Mountview Academy of Theatre Arts and will be playing the titular role in the show.

Although she has been involved in pantos every year from the age of six to 16, this year marks her debut at Hertford Theatre.

Ms Rose told the Mercury: "It is very exciting to be a part of such an amazing production and working alongside such lovely people."

"Although this is my first leading role, I would say that I am actually more excited than nervous, and I am looking forward to starting rehearsals in November".

The role of Babushka will be played by Colleen Daley, who was trained at East 15 Acting

School and has recorded numerous voiceovers for radio and television, including voicing Fizz on BBC's hit children's programme Tweenies.

Ms Daley said: "It is great to be appearing at Hertford Theatre, especially portraying such a brilliant character."

"The show will feature a live band, so performing alongside them is really quite exciting."

The team behind the show have enjoyed successful performances in previous years, including last year's production of The Brothers Grimm's classic tale, Hansel And Gretel.

Hertford Theatre director Rhys Thomas, who is writing and directing the production, stood in for Rob West's Big Bad Wolf at the event.

He said: "Families can expect an enchanting Christmas show, with jokes, music and brilliant characters, written with local families in mind".

Ticket prices for the performance vary, and both matinee and evening performances will be put on throughout the show's run.

School groups cost £10 per ticket, and free ice cream will be available for each child, whilst one teacher goes free with every ten children.

FIRST DRIVE Lexus RX 450h Premier

Stylish and practical

By John Murdoch

If you are in the market for a luxury SUV you are certainly spoiled for choice these days. One of the most striking cars in the sector is the Lexus RX 450h which combines futuristic styling with the Japanese company's hybrid technology.

There is certainly no mistaking the big Lexus for anything else thanks to its bold styling.

The current fourth generation model arrived late last year and is considerably larger than the previous RX giving it an even stronger road presence.

Its huge bold grille dominates the nose along with large L-shaped LED headlights, arrowhead fog lights and a creased bonnet.

In profile the 'origami' styling, with plenty of creases and interesting shapes, sets the RX apart from its rivals. Blacked-out C-pillars provide a floating roof effect and LED taillights wrap around into the side of the car, while huge 20-inch alloys add even more drama.

The 450h is powered by a combination of a 3.5-litre V6 turbo-petrol engine, two electric motors linked to a high voltage battery and a CVT automatic transmission.

As a result the RX is good for 124mph and has a sprint time of 7.7 seconds to reach 62mph. It delivers its power silently when in electric mode and it is just as quiet when the silky petrol engine takes over.

Even more impressive,

AT A GLANCE

- Model: Lexus RX 450h Premier
- Price: £57,995
- Mechanical: 259bhp, 3,546cc, 6cyl petrol engine driving four wheels via automatic gearbox
- Max speed: 124mph
- 0-62mph: 7.7 seconds
- Combined mpg: 51.4
- Insurance group: 42

- CO2 emissions: 127g/km
- BiK rating: 20%
- Warranty: 3yrs/60,000 miles

emissions are just 127g/km – giving it a big tax advantage over its competitors – and the claimed combined figure is 51.4mpg.

In real conditions you won't get anywhere near that but I averaged almost 35mpg which is not bad for a vehicle of this size.

The suspension deals with even the worst surfaces, providing a comfortable and smooth ride. For a large vehicle the RX handles surprisingly well and it is an ideal long-distance cruiser.

As you would expect from Lexus, the interior is superb.

Only the finest materials have been used and the leather front seats are electrically-adjustable and feature memory settings as well as being heated or ventilated.

There is stacks of room for five adults to travel in comfort and there is also a substantial amount of space for luggage.

You can select from a choice of three driving modes – Eco-Normal or Sport and the car can also be driven in EV or electric only power.

The 15-speaker Mark Levinson sound system is magnificent and you also get a colour head-up display, wireless smartphone charger, a heated leather and wood steering wheel, dual zone climate control and a premium navigation system on a wide screen.

The all-wheel-drive RX lists a comprehensive amount of safety features including blind spot monitoring, sway warning alert, lane departure alert, lane keep assist, traffic sign recognition, adaptive high beam, rear cross traffic alert and hill-start assist as well as numerous air bags.

At £57,995 the RX 450h is far from cheap and a panoramic sunroof and sonic titanium paint brought the test car up to £59,935. That seems hefty but to spec some of the opposition up to the Lexus level would cost much more.

The flagship Lexus is certainly a handsome lump that offers just about everything you could want from a premium SUV that is not designed for serious off-roading and it offers an interesting alternative to its mostly diesel rivals.

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

Many of the signs are going to be trying to lead you astray, but they can only succeed if you let them. Be aware of all you are agreeing to or you could end up with egg on your face. The chance to try your hand at something new should be accepted and could in fact turn out to be just what the doctor ordered. Ring now to hear why it would not be a good idea to chance that this week.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 350 65p per minute

CANCER JUNE 22 - JULY 22

Hat-trick hero helps Harlow bounce back

Winger Whitby the star man in bonus point win

London & South East
Division Three North East

Harlow 36
Ely 15

SCOTT WHITBY'S hat-trick was the highlight of Harlow's 36-15 victory at home to Ely.

They bounced back from last week's defeat against Stowmarket with a bonus point win, despite a close first half.

Playing up the hill, Harlow were immediately on the front foot. Good work at the breakdown forced a penalty after just two minutes from 30 yards out, Danny Smith's attempt at goal flew just by the upright.

The next ten minutes were far from fluent with both teams struggling to stamp their authority on the match.

It was Harlow who settled first though, working through the phases before moving the ball along the backs to Whitby. The right winger still had work to do, handing off his opposite number before going over in the corner.

Pressure

Ely responded well, immediately putting pressure on the Harlow back three. Some simple mistakes allowed the away team good field position before they won a penalty and converted the kick for three points.

The visitors continued to exert pressure on the Harlow defence. A series of pick and drives close to the line resulted in the visitors' first try which was converted to give them the lead.

Harlow gradually worked their way back into the half and scored another two well worked tries before the interval. Both scores saw backs and forwards working well together before putting Whitby into space for two simple finishes and the hosts went into the break 17-10 ahead.

They carried on from where they left off in the second half. After fine work by the forwards Smith kept the ball alive and set a platform for the backs, and Rob Mackie scored near the posts.

At the end of the third quarter Harlow again spread the ball wide, this time to Ryan McGlone. The winger cut in from the left to beat a number of defenders, the ball was recycled quickly and eventually found its way to Ross Stalley for Harlow's fifth try.

Ely weren't finished and managed to work their way up the pitch through indiscipline from Harlow, eventually working the blindside to score their final points of the match.

And Harlow put the game to bed with less than ten minutes to go as Michael Weston, playing his first game for the club in a number of years, broke through the Ely backs to score and confirm the 36-15 victory.

Harlow travel to May and Baker on Saturday looking to make it three wins from four games.

The Rams enjoyed a thumping 58-7 victory over Ongar to maintain their unbeaten start to the season.

They found themselves 7-0 down early on before scoring five tries, three of which were converted, and a penalty to lead 34-7 at the break.

And they didn't let up in the second half, scoring another four tries, with Chay Clark converting all of them. Jack Clark bagged a hat-trick, Alfie Clark and Tyler Howard both went over twice, with Ryan Clark and Simon Venbeck completing the scoring.

Adelulola is latest signing for Leopards

BASKETBALL: Levett Essex Leopards have pulled off a major coup with the signing of British point guard Bode Adelulola.

The 26-year-old joins after five seasons with the Big Cats' Division One rivals Hemel Storm where he averaged 16.5 points and 4.9 assists per game last season.

Leopards coach Steve Ogunjimi is delighted with his new signing: "To have Bode coming into the team is a massive addition. After losing Albert [Margai] to Surrey this summer, I knew I had to replace him with a proven point guard to run the team and Bode is definitely proven in this league."

The newest Leopard suffered a knee injury during pre-season but is expected to be fit for the opening league game at Northumbria on October 9.

Adelulola is excited to join the Big Cats: "After spending five good years at Hemel, I'm going into a new chapter in my life and I couldn't think of a better team than Essex to start this new venture with. With an already strong team I hope to fit in quite nicely into the picture."

Leopards recorded their first win of the season in a 68-67 Trophy thriller at London Luton.

Mike Martin (pictured above) scored the winning basket with over a minute left on the clock.

Five-goal Hawks find form in dominant victory

HARLOW TOWN are just two points off the play-off spots after a comprehensive 5-1 win against Needham Market on Tuesday night.

The Hawks were in control from the start and took the lead after 13 minutes thanks to Fabian Simms, with Mario Noto and Joe Benjamin also netting in a busy first half.

Needham got a goal back before half-time through Darryl Coakley, but Layne Eadie and Alex Read completed the scoring.

Read, who had missed the previous two games through illness, almost opened the scoring after eight minutes, only to see his shot bounce back off the post and into the keeper's arms.

But Harlow didn't have to wait long to take the lead. Jared Small's cross was deflected out to Noto, who set up Simms to slot home from the penalty spot.

Eadie almost made it two for the Hawks soon after but Daniel Gay dived smartly to his left to push away his goal-bound shot.

The Hawks increased their lead just after the half hour mark. Read refused to give up on a ball forward, nicked it off a defender on the by-line and teed up Noto who found the bottom corner.

It wasn't long before Harlow were celebrating again. Simms produced a lovely bit of skill in the middle and spread the ball wide to Benjamin. He beat full-back Jake Dye and smashed his shot past Gay and into the net.

Despite struggling to get out of their half for large periods of the first half, Needham pulled a goal back before the break. Darryl Coakley's attempted cross from the left flew over David Hughes and into the top corner.

The Hawks restored their three-goal cushion nine minutes into the second half. Eadie's first effort was blocked but he fired his second in off the bar from six yards out.

And Read made it five with 30 minutes left, diverting the ball past Gay from an Ibrahim Sonko header.

The visitors had a couple of late chances, John Sands hit the bar with an acrobatic scissor kick and Reece Dobson missed from the spot late on after Eadie brought him down.

Pope: 'Cut out the silly comments to the referee'

DESPITE finishing two of their last four games with just nine men on the pitch, Harlow Town skipper Craig Pope isn't worried about his side's discipline on the pitch.

Lawrence Yiga and Bamba Ngamb were the latest to be sent off on Saturday and the five yellow cards they picked up against Needham Market on Tuesday evening will see the club fined £250.

Although Pope knows they must stop surrounding the referee during games and talking their way into the book, he doesn't see an issue with their combative style.

"We want to be competitive," stated Pope.

"We want to be going into tackles full hearted and definitely don't want to lose that element of our game.

"The games against King's Lynn and Sudbury were a couple of one off occasions where the players have been pumped up going into a game and desperately wanted to do well.

"Maybe when we are trying to retain the ball we need to be a little bit cleverer in terms of timing our tackles.

"We need to stop surrounding the referee or making silly comments but apart from that, it's not an issue."

Embarrassed

Pope says the players were embarrassed with their performance on Saturday [3-1 loss] and knew they needed to lift their game on Tuesday night.

"We owed a performance to the club, the manager and the fans after Saturday.

"We were all very embarrassed in the changing room and didn't need to be told, everyone knew that they'd let themselves down.

"But we were excellent against Needham, every single individual did their job on the pitch and we never gave them a chance.

"It's disappointing not to keep a clean sheet but it was a freak goal, Hughes [David Hughes] had no chance really.

"We want a play-off position and if we show the same work rate and desire as we did on Tuesday night in every game, then we are more than capable of doing that.

"Belief is starting to creep into the group, we've had to adapt to a new league where the margins for error are smaller but like I said earlier, it's a team that wants to do well."

And Pope was also enjoying playing at Ryman Premier level again: "I spent many years when I was younger playing at this level and higher.

"It's a different challenge when you're a bit older though, you have to work harder but you always want to challenge yourself at the highest level so I'm really enjoying it."

Danny's delighted with super Hawks

DANNY CHAPMAN was delighted his Harlow side are just two points off the Ryman Premier play-off spots as October approaches.

The Hawks bounced back from a disappointing 3-1 home defeat against AFC Sudbury on Saturday with an emphatic 5-1 win against Needham Market on Tuesday night (report on page 71).

Chapman believes the result proves that anyone is beatable in this division, as long as his side cut out the mistakes.

"In every game, apart from Saturday, we've competed," explained Chapman. "We could have more points on the board if it wasn't for little mistakes and individual errors we have made.

"I think that's a learning curve they're all now starting to get their heads round, the higher you go the more you get punished for mistakes. I am more than confident that we can compete at this level, everyone is 100 per cent beatable."

He was also full of praise for the way his side bounced back from Saturday's display with a dominant performance against Needham. He saved special praise for centre-back Ibrahima Sonko, who had apologised to his manager after a poor performance against Sudbury.

Dominated

"Sonko was my man of the match against Needham. Not a lot of people see it but if you watched him play on Tuesday night he looked in control," he added.

"He dominated their forwards and he sort of dominated us in respect of the way we played, because he was always on the front foot and it just lifted everyone and gives everyone that little bit of confidence, you can see why he's played at a higher level.

"But you don't want to pick just one player after a performance like that, you have to give massive credit to all the players because the performance on Saturday could have affected them.

"I said to them before Tuesday's game that this will go one of two ways. We're either going to perform the way we did on Saturday and then you could think there is a real problem, or you can go and do what they did and then it's a one-off.

"Deep down I knew it was a one-off game Saturday, but to get the reaction we did and to dominate a team that have been doing really well of late is massively pleasing.

"We'd definitely have taken this start back in August. We set ourselves goals in the summer and then we look at them again at Christmas and see where we're at and the goals adjust accordingly.

"If you'd said to me at the start that we'd be eighth and just a couple of points off the play-offs then I'd have taken your hand off."
